Layout and condition

The apartment consists of an entrance hall, two bedrooms, a kitchen connected to the living room, a bathroom with a tub, and the terrace. The layout is straightforward, with no wasted space and a clear separation between living and sleeping areas. Being the top floor, there are no neighbours above.

The living room opens onto the terrace through large thermally insulated aluminium sliding walls, bringing daylight into the space throughout the day. The terrace has a glass balustrade and a glass roof, which keeps it usable outside the summer months, with views towards the sea and the Brijuni islands. The southwest orientation means sun from midday until sunset.

The apartment is sold furnished: the custom kitchen with built-in appliances, four fitted wardrobes with sliding doors and the bathroom furniture all stay, so no further investment is needed before moving in. The bedrooms have parquet flooring, the living room porcelain stoneware. The entrance door is security-rated, class WK2.

Micro-location and lifestyle

The biggest practical advantage of the location is the white path leading from the village straight down to the sea, without crossing the main road. Children can walk it to the beach on their own, and it comes out right at Portić and the Lux Beach Club.

Portić is an old fishing harbour with a grill bar right by the water, known for the catch of the day and its sunsets. The Lux Beach Club in the same bay operates during the summer season. A walking and cycling path runs along the coast all the way to Fažana.

Dining nearby:

Fažana is the departure port for Brijuni National Park, with a marina, a promenade and summer events. Peroj itself stays quiet year-round, with its historic core and a community that lives there off-season as well.
